WILD MAN ROAMS THROUGH WOODS

Strange Man With Appearance of an Escaped Lunatic Frightens
People Near Milroy.

CARRIES PAIL AND STICK

Theory is Advanced That he is Frank
Miller, Who Disappeared
From St. Paul.

A strange man, who has all of the marks of the only real and original wild man that ever inhabited the globe was seen in the vicinity of Milroy yesterday and frightened all of the farmers together with their wives and children of the neighborhood. He was found in a woods, thick with underbrush, about four miles southwest of Milroy and in appearance resembled very much an escaped lunatic.

The man created a furore in the whole neighborhood. Farmers stopped their work, while boys of the whole neighborhood did the bravado act and tried to see who could get the closest to the strange specimen of humanity. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green was heralded as the hero of the crowd as he approached nearer to the stranger than anyone else. He got within one hundred feet of the alleged lunatic and then broke and ran for shelter. The boy had no reason to fear the stranger for he did the same thing when the boy turned and showed the white flag.

The stranger appeared to be rather young, possibly not over twenty-five or thirty years old, but he wore a heavy growth of beard, which gave him the appearance of being really older than he is. The man carried a dinner pail like political parties use in advancing the theory of the full dinner pail. He also carried a stick in his hand, occasionally throwing it in the air and catching it. People in that vicinity finally decided that the man was demented and left him alone fearing that he might do them harm even though apparently he was perfectly docile. Nothing was seen of the man today, so far as could be learned.

The theory was advanced that the alleged wild man was none other than Frank Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miller of St. Paul, who disappeared from his home one week ago last Tuesday. Others in the neighborhood discredited the story, saying that the wild man looked nothing like Frank Miller.

The story was given such credence around Greensburg that one of the Greensburg papers printed a story to the effect that Frank Miller had been found running wild over a woods southwest of Milroy and would be captured and taken to his home. But reports from that vicinity today were that the man had not been taken.

Frank Miller disappeared from his home and members of his family feared that he had roamed away, while insane, working on the theory that he was insane when he tried to take his own life once before. The theory was later advanced that Miller had gone to Wisconsin as he had expressed the desire many times to travel to the western State.

LEW CLINE IS HERO OF HOUR

Discovers Fire at Eliza Stevens'
Home in Jackson Township and Notifies Occupant in Time.

BUCKET BRIGADE WORKS WELL

Lewis Cline, rural mail carrier on rural route nine, is the hero of the hour. By that particular trait of close observation, he won for himself unexpected laurels this morning when he discovered the home of Mrs. Eliza Stevens in Jackson township, north of the city, on fire. As a result, what might have been a disastrous blaze, was narrowly averted and the fire was put out after Mrs. Stevens had suffered a small loss. She lives on the Rufus Rhodes farm.

Mr. Cline was riding along in his mail wagon, when he glanced up and saw the roof of the Stevens house was on fire. Smoke was issuing from under the eaves and it looked as if the flames would burst forth any minute. He drove up to the house and warned Mrs. Stevens, who was alone at the time. Several women soon gathered and with their assistance Mr. Cline showered bucketful after bucketful of water on the roof, until the blaze was extinguished. The fire was put out before any men arrived. It originated from an overheated flue.

REPORT COURT BILL TO HOUSE

Committee Favors Billman Measure to Link Rush and Henry Together With One Dissenting Vote.

HE FILES MINORITY REPORT

Generally Believed Bill Will be Passed Since it Increases Democratic Office Holders.

The house committee on the organization of courts yesterday reported for adoption the bill introduced by Representative Billman of Shelby county, providing for the creating of a judicial circuit in Shelby county and the uniting of Henry and Rush counties in a circuit, says an Indianapolis dispatch. Accompanying the report was a minority opinion signed by Representative Harris, who opposes the Rush-Henry circuit.

Representative Williams of Henry county opposed the measure on the grounds that the Henry circuit court had all the business that it could transact in the allotted time. He, however, had no opposition whatever to the proposed separate circuit in Shelby county.

It is generally believed that the majority report will be accepted in the house. Shelby county is Democratic and there is a general disposition on the part of the majority to favor any measure that would increase the number of Democratic office holders in the State.

Judge Jackson and N. Guy Jones went from Muncie to Indianapolis Wednesday evening to see what could be done to prevent the passage of the bill of Representative Billman, according to the New Castle Times. And they were not greatly encouraged when they came home from the State capitol.

Judge Jackson and Mr. Jones were in conference with Representative Williams and learned that there was little chance at this time of doing any effective work. The committee on organization of courts had given the Henry county men assurance that the majority report would be against the passage of the bill, but after a conference with Shelby county men the committee changed front and the majority stood for reporting in favor of the passage of the measure.

FUNERAL SUNDAY MORNING

Hiram B. Ward, 80 years old, died last night at ten o'clock at his home about one mile north of Gowdy. He was a prominent and prosperous farmer and had lived on his farm near Gowdy for a large number of years.

Besides his widow he is survived by five children, four girls, Orril, Clara, Lulu Edith and Rozeltha and one son, Charles. The funeral services will be held Sunday morning at ten o'clock at the Gowdy church. Burial will take place at East Hill cemetery.

UNABLE TO TRACE FLEEING NEGRO

Police Can Not Track Sam Franklin,
Who Created a Near Riot at City Plant Yesterday.

TRIED TO SHOOT AN EMPLOYEE

Reported That he Was Seen Near Milroy by Section Men—Was Running South.

So far, the police have been unable to get any trace of Sam Franklin, the colored man, who caused a near reign of terror at the city light, light and power plant yesterday when he appeared with a shot gun and threatened to shoot the workmen who are installing new boilers there. When the police were called, Franklin learned they were coming and disappeared. The police traced him to his house, but there lost all track of him. It was reported about the city today that he was seen near Milroy last night.

Section men, who were working below Bennett's Crossing in the southern part of the county, claim that they saw a strange negro running south on the Big Four railroad late yesterday evening. They believe it was Franklin, who is wanted by the police here for the offense of yesterday. They say that Franklin evidently imagined that he was being pursued by his foes, the police of this city. It is said that the negro, believed to be Franklin, thought a tramp, who followed in his wake, was someone from Rushville, who was intent on capturing him. When the colored man gave out, he would rest for a time, according to the story told by the section men, until the hobo was near him and then he would take up the chase again.

It is said that Franklin has relatives near Andersonville and that he has gone down into the hills of Franklin county to escape the police. Prosecutor Dennis O'Neil believes he is making a straight line for Kentucky, which is the mecca for law offenders.

According to the story told by one of the workmen at the plant, who was an eye witness to the incident of yesterday, Franklin had quarreled with Edwin Bolland shortly after dinner, because the negro took more than one-half hour for dinner. It is said that Franklin hit Bolland and that a general scrap ensued for a few minutes. Franklin, enraged at the rough treatment, went home for his gun, and returned to open fire on the men. He pulled both triggers, while the gun was pointed at the workmen, but it was not loaded. He placed shells in the gun and prepared to open fire on them when he heard that the police were coming and disappeared. It is understood that Bolland and his brother came to the down-town district to procure guns, but that Franklin left before they returned.

HELD INDIGNATION MEETING

Clarksburg People Aroused Over
Proposed Pool Room.

The citizens of Clarksburg are up in arms over the proposed pool room to be started there. A few nights ago an indignation meeting was held and was attended by a large crowd. The Rev. George Gallup presided and a number of speeches were made against the establishment of the pool room. Petitions are being circulated and an effort will be made to keep the town without a pool room.

MILL ALMOST COMPLETED

C. J. Bickhart Will Install New and Modern Equipment.

C. J. Bickhart, who formerly operated a flour mill in St. Paul has his building on the site of the old Carmichael mill almost complete. The machinery for his new mill has arrived and is ready to be installed. All of it is of the most improved and modern type. Mr. Bickhart hopes to have the mill running in a few weeks.

RUSH COUNTY TO REMAIN IN SIXTH

National House Says Number Shall Not be Decreased and 13 Districts Will Remain in State.

DECATUR TO BE DIVORCED

All plans that have been made at Indianapolis for re-districting the State into twelve congressional districts were rendered obsolete when the House of Representatives in Washington yesterday, by a combination of Democrats and bolting Republican members, passed the bill of Representative Crumpacker increasing the membership of the House from 391 to 433, with extra provision of one member each for Arizona and New Mexico.

This means that Rush county will not be in the shoestring district which was mapped out by a bill, presented in the State house of representatives recently to re-district the State into twelve districts. But another bill has been prepared, dividing the State into thirteen districts, which changes the counties in the Sixth. According to that plan Rush remains in the Sixth, but Decatur will be divorced and placed in the Fourth, while all of Marion county, with the exception of Indianapolis, will be added to the proposed district.

GERRYMANDER TO EFFECT COUNTY

Democratic Legislature Would Link
Rush, Fayette and Franklin to Elect State Senator.

PUT HANCOCK WITH SHELBY

A bill will be introduced by Senator Grube in the State Senate in the near future, which will re-district Indiana completely in regard to representation in the General Assembly. The bill, which has passed the Senate committee, is said to be the most complete gerrymander which was ever attempted by a political party and is purely a caucus measure. It will materially effect Rush county in representation. Rush will still be allowed to have one representative, but she will be linked with other counties in electing a senator. At present, Rush, Fayette and Hancock are a district, which is normally Republican. The new bill proposes to make a senatorial district of Rush, Fayette and Franklin, the Democrats evidently believing that the big Democratic majority in Franklin can overcome the Republican majority in this and Fayette counties. Hancock is placed with Shelby county in a senatorial district. Both are Democratic.

GOES FROM HERE TO GRANT COUNTY

Seaborn Wright of Georgia, Who Will Address Men's Meeting, Will Assist in Marion.

IS AN ELOQUENT SOUTHERNER

"Drys" There Are Making Persistent
Effort to Win County For Temperance.

Seaborn Wright of Georgia, ex-senator, who will address the Men's Big Meeting here next Sunday afternoon at the Main Street Christian church, at one of the many meetings that are planned by the "drys" in the battle for votes against the saloon, will go from here to Marion, where a very persistent fight is being made by the "drys" to speak on Monday night. The Marion Chronicle says of the former senator:

Seaborn Wright of Georgia, one of the strongest speakers engaged in the movement against the saloons in the United States, will speak at Marion on Monday evening under the auspices of the county and city "dry" organizations.

Seaborn Wright was one of the foremost leaders in the movement that swept the saloon out of Georgia. He fought vigorously for a declaration against the saloons by the dominant party in that State, and took an active part in the campaign which resulted in saloon elimination.

He is one of the most eloquent orators in the State of Henry W. Grady and John Temple Graves. As a speaker he has few superiors on the platform. Grant county is fortunate in securing his services, which were obtained through the State headquarters of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league.

Details of the meeting have not yet been arranged. It is certain, however, that Mr. Wright will be greeted.

RETURN HOME FROM CORN SHOW

William Alexander Says Indiana Was Well Represented at National Exhibit in Columbus, O.

MANY INTERESTING FEATURES

William Alexander has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where he attended the National Corn Show and visited Mr. and Mrs. George Seeley and family, formerly of this city.

While there Mr. Alexander took in many places of interest including the Ohio legislature, State penitentiary and the famous Hartman farm. Hartman is the man who made Peru famous.

At the corn show Indiana captured the $1,000 ten ear corn prize, it going to L. B. Clore of Johnson county. Purdue University had one of the best exhibits at the show. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Hackleman of Center township, who graduated two years ago from Purdue had charge of the exhibit from the State of Missouri.

An Italian engineer has invented a cinematograph apparatus which can be connected with objects liable to be stolen in such a fashion that as soon as a person has hands on them his every movement is photographed.

Backache comes from the inside—from the kidneys.

Here is Rushville proof that this is so:

Samuel A. Brown, 527 West First street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know from personal experience that they live up to the claims made for them. About three years ago I was suddenly taken with an attack of backache and it steadily grew worse. I could hardly raise my foot from the ground and if I stooped it really seemed as if my back was going to break. When someone was vided me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was certainly surprised by their promptness in relieving me. In three days I was free from backache and felt better in every way. Since then I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store and have seldom been without a supply in the house. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of the highest praise."

Lesson VII.—First Quarter, For
Feb. 12, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings xviii, 25-39—Memory Verses, 38, 39—Golden Text, Josh. xxiv, 15—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

After Elijah's long sojourn at Cherith and Zarephath the word of the Lord came again to him. Compare verse 1 and chapter xvii, 2, 8. The majority of believers are appointed to glorify God in a very quiet, commonplace kind of life, not often so quiet and lonely as Cherith nor so lowly as Zarephath and yet very ordinary. May the thirty years of Jesus at Nazareth be a great encouragement to all such.

Then, as to knowing when to move from where we are, may the pillar of cloud and fire be our guide. See Num. ix, 15-23. Remember also that when Joseph was sent to Egypt with Mary and the child Jesus it was said to him, "Be thou there until I bring thee word" (Matt. ii, 13). No will but His and a prompt obedience to His word will give us days of heaven on earth (Deut. xi, 21). As plainly as he was told, "Get thee hence and hide thyself" (xvii, 3), so now he is told, "Go shew thyself unto Ahab." We think of Ezekiel, who was told, "Arise; go forth into the plain," and later, "Go shut thyself within thine house" (Ezek. iii, 22-24). Perfect acquiescence and unquestioning obedience are the only way of rest and peace.

We are now introduced to Obadiah, the governor of Ahab's house, a good man in a hard place. But Joseph and Daniel were somewhat similarly situated, though they did not choose their situations. Whether this Obadiah did or not we are not told. We are glad to learn that he was the means of preserving the lives of a hundred prophets and that he was a man who feared the Lord from his youth. His name means "servant of Jehovah," and we trust that as a good servant his aim was to please God rather than man (Eph. vi, 6).

When Elijah would have Obadiah tell Ahab that he had come he was at first afraid, but afterward went, and so Ahab and Elijah met, with the greeting from the former, "Art thou he that troubleth Israel?" to which Elijah replied that the guilt was upon him and his father's house. And without further talk he ordered him to gather to Mount Carmel the 850 prophets who ate at Jezebel's table. Ahab seems to have been promptly obedient, and soon Elijah is face to face with the prophets of Baal and challenges them and the people with the words: "How long halt ye between two opinions? If Jehovah be God follow Him, but if Baal then follow him" (verse 21).

It is probable that many of the people were in doubt about Baal, inasmuch as he did not deliver them from their distress. The proposition that they and Elijah should each prepare a sacrifice and then decide upon the God that should answer by fire commended itself to the people, and all the people answered and said, "It is well spoken," or, as in the margin, "the word is good." Elijah gave the prophets of Baal the first opportunity, and, having prepared their sacrifice, we see them from morning until noon and from noon until the time of the evening sacrifice calling upon their gods, Elijah urging them on with his "Cry aloud, for he is a god. Either he is talking or he hath a pursuit, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth and must be awaked." But, although they cried aloud and cut themselves till the blood gushed out, there was no response whatever. One would think that the devil would have done something to encourage his devoted worshippers, but the hand of the Lord must have restrained him.

When they had utterly failed then Elijah said unto all the people, "Come near unto me." With what interest or perhaps in sullen silence they must have watched the repairing of the altar of the Lord, the placing of twelve stones to represent the twelve tribes, the digging of a trench and then the placing of the sacrifice on the wood! If they had been at all indifferent up to this time they would surely be amazed at the threefold drenching of everything with twelve barrels of water until even the trench was filled. Now, what could fire do even if it came? Listen now to the prayer (verses 36, 37) which, uttered distinctly and slowly, does not occupy half a minute. The fire of the Lord fell, consuming even the stones and the dust and the water in the trench.

When the people saw it they fell on their faces and said: "Jehovah, He is the God! Jehovah, He is the God!" Then Elijah had all the prophets of Baal brought to the brook Kishon and slain there. Not one escaped. Ahab went up to eat and drink, and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel to pray. Note in Elijah's prayer for fire that his one cry was that Jehovah would show Himself as God, and he asked nothing for himself but to be known as the Lord's servant. Consider the Lord answering by fire in Lev. ix, 24; Judg. vi, 21; 1 Chron. xxi, 26; II Chron. vii, 1, and I have no doubt that the sacrifice of Abel was also accepted in the same way—fire from the sword in Eden reaching out to the sacrifice, while Cain's offering was untouched. May we all be consumed with such love to God as shall make it manifest that Jesus lives.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Feb. 12, 1911.

Topic.—Lessons from great lives.—II. Joseph.—Gen. xli, 14-41. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The poet has said:

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

But in these lines, as in many others, there is much poetic privilege, or what is usually called "poetic license." It is not always literally true that men can make their own lives sublime even by studying the lives of others who have done so. But it is true that lives may be made better and higher than they are by studying especially the lives of men who have reached a high place in life against great difficulties, provided the life following the example also possesses the abilities to achieve great things. Their latent talents are simply aroused and awakened into active energy by the inspiration of one who, having the ability, has used it.

But all men cannot be great and sublime. Life's duties are of various kinds—some distinguished and some humble. Some require great gifts, and some demand but insignificant abilities, but all are needed to make the world's work complete. But, if anything, the great work harder than the different lower classes. Moreover,

God rewards each in proportion as he is faithful to his position, whether it be high or humble. If a king rules well he is no more in the sight of God than his most humble servant. In this way God equalizes men in their different gifts and places of labor.

Of all the men who have lifted other lives the best examples are to be found in the Bible. In this respect the life of Joseph is one of the most supreme, because he possessed a spirit and life of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, who lived the only perfect life that was ever lived in this world after Adam's sin and fall.

His entire career was one of inspiration. He was born in a home of wealth and was the favorite son of his father, Jacob. Certain dreams pointed to his rule over his brethren, which he seems to have related with considerable pride. This, with the favoritism of his father, also manifest, caused his brethren to hate him, the result being that he was sold to men going to Egypt, who there sold him to Potiphar, a member of the king's household, and soon afterward thrown into prison. Here he interpreted two dreams of his fellow prisoners which came true, as he said, and one was executed and the other released to his old position in the king's household. But, released himself, he forgot Joseph, whom he had promised he would recommend to the king's mercy. Then the king had two dreams which were as one, and, no one being able to interpret, he recalled Joseph, who interpreted the king's dreams concerning the seven years of plenty and seven years of famine and was given charge of collecting and storing up grain in the seven years of plenty and for this purpose was next to Pharaoh, "the first man in the kingdom." Until his death he had great influence in Egypt, and his people prospered until gradually they were enslaved, when "a king arose who knew not Joseph."

In his life many lessons that should lift other lives may be found, of which only two will be mentioned.

First.—The first lesson is the supreme one. Joseph was always faithful to God. In his father's home he was an obedient son, else he would not have been the favorite son. When sold into Egypt and finally thrown into prison under a false and cruel charge he still put his trust in God, and when made first in the kingdom, next to the king, he was still mindful of God and ascribed the ability to interpret dreams to Him, and when ruling with Pharaoh in peace and power he stayed close to God. To this greatest of all can his splendid success be attributed. No one can reach true fame or real greatness without following Joseph in this respect. All else of greatness is but temporary and illusory except God be behind it.

Second.—Joseph is the best type of Christian in the Old Testament. The Bible is a true record of the characters it portrays. The sins as well as virtues of its characters are all told. But of Joseph nothing evil is recorded except his pride in telling the dreams of his youth. He treated all alike. He was no respecter of persons. He told the dreams of his fellow prisoners with the same readiness that he interpreted those of the king. He saved Egypt in its awful crisis and Israel at the same time. His supreme mission, like that of Christ, was to save, and their names both mean Saviour. Like Christ, he resisted temptations.

Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys. How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tested and its results have proven so revolutionary that a well-known firm in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country.

Those who suffer from kidney trouble and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of advancing kidney disease which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rheumatism and bladder trouble are caused from nothing more nor less than kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder stones are caused by bad kidneys.

Once they are made to work properly, these diseases should quickly disappear.

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills.

We urge everyone who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fail to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and drop all other kidney treatments. Senator Stevenson, of Washington, writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—60 pills—10 days' treatment—25 cents, or direct from Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. Then buy a package; you will not regret it.

A MINE MYSTERY

Was Woman Murdered and Body Cast Into Abandoned Shaft?

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 10.—The finding of a pile of partially burned woman's clothing near a new and small opening in the cover over the water-filled shaft of the abandoned Prospect Hill coal mine, furnishes the police with a mystery. The theory is that a woman has been murdered and thrown down the shaft, but there is no clue.

According to the police the hole in the cover of the mine is not much over one month old, and they assert that a woman a little below the average size could have been forced through the opening. No work has been done in the mine for over six years, and the water in the shaft is 300 feet deep. Parts of garments found near the opening have been seen by many persons, but have not been identified.

This Raises a Question.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 10.—A man who registered as L. R. Ashurst, the reversed initials of the missing Philadelphia postmaster, and answering his description, registered at the St. Regis hotel here Feb. 2. The same day he received a telegram from a woman. The sender asked Ashurst to come home.

IT GROWS HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum or permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Karex — Navarre — Briardale — Vienna — Mocha & Java

Do you like a keen, tangy, sparkling coffee? Choose Karex. A piquant, high-flavored coffee? Choose Navarre. A soft, mellow, velvety coffee? Then order Briardale. A rich, savory, aromatic coffee? That is Vienna. Or do you prefer the distinct brew produced only by the most expert blending of real Mocha & Java? Then select Golden Sun Mocha & Java.

Each always uniform in goodness—in air-tight packages, pure, clean, and containing the luscious oil which is the "life," flavor, aroma of the coffee berry. Most of this goodness escapes from coffee handled in bulk.

Beware of the stale, pulpy, dusty coffee kept in open bins and sold by irresponsible peddlers. These coffees no more compare with Golden Sun Blends than a rose in full fragrance compares with one that is withered and dead.

Make coffee time a delight every time. Your grocer will gladly help you select your particular Blend. He will show you the Golden Sun Table of Tastes so you can make no mistake in securing the flavor that makes coffee your most welcome drink.

The "Insurgent" Movement.

(Wabash Plain Dealer.)

The new insurgent organization which has for its purpose the acquisition of control of the organization of the Republican party in 1912 and the defeat of President Taft for re-election is not producing that revolution which the Lafolletes and the Bristows and the Bournes had hoped and expected.

On the contrary it has inspired with disgust the vast majority of the party members who are and have been for years Republicans from principle, but who were originally inclined to sympathize with the so-called insurgent movement because they had been misled into the belief that the party leadership was not sufficiently radical to bring about reforms along certain lines.

When, however, the insurgents grew bold enough to show their hand and indiscreet enough to betray that their sole object in posing dramatically as martyred independents and champions of the people, was to keep themselves and their friends in office, and that they cared precious little whether Republican or Democratic principles triumphed if their own selfish ambitions were gratified, the voters began to get a view of "insurgency" from a new angle.

It is plain to everybody now that victory for the new organization means death to Republican principles and the Republicans of the country can no longer blink the fact that the active existence of the insurgent organization within the party is a menace to the party life.

All over the country where this idea has "soaked in" among party men, there arises vigorous protest against playing with insurgency and a determination to put to the test the matter of the survival of the new league or that of the Republican party.

LOCAL OPTION TALK.

(Columbus Republican.)

In speaking of the return of saloons recently a former Columbus saloon man said that there were to his certain knowledge one hundred and fifty men who hoped to get licenses to sell liquor in Bartholomew county, and when someone looked skeptical and suggested that he was probably drawing it just a little strong, he began calling off his list, but he ran out of breath before he had finished. However, it must be admitted that there are many who want to engage in the liquor traffic and it is also safe to say that there will be many who will not be permitted to do so, if for no other reason than their numbers.

(Connersville News.)

The County Commissioners, who were expected last evening to announce the names of the members of the election boards for the wet or dry election to be held in this city on February 28, will not formally appoint those boards until Saturday.

(New Castle Times.)

Under the provisions of the Proctor liquor law elections are held by cities, townships, or that part of a township outside a city. If a city votes dry it is all dry.

What New Castle will do under such a law is problematical. It is the opinion of many persons, however, that the city will go dry by a substantial majority. In the election of March 31, 1909, this city gave a dry majority of several hundred. Since that time some of the men engaged in the saloon business have left town, while others are engaged in other lines of business and might not come back. For the wets to carry the city would require a first class campaign and it is a question who would perfect an organization for them and carry the campaign to a successful issue.

On the other hand the ministerial association is already at work getting its organization in condition to wage an effective contest. The question of whether New Castle will be a better business town or a worse business town on account of the presence or absence of saloons will not affect the coming election. That matter was settled two years ago and will not influence any votes this time.

(Greensburg News.)

An organization has been perfected for the purpose of keeping Greensburg in the dry column. The league will be known as the Anti-Liquor League of Decatur county and stern efforts will be made to have every township in the county vote dry.

L. D. Braden has been elected president; Rev. Sheldon, secretary and treasurer, and Jesse W. Rueker, vice president of Washington township. Vice presidents will be elected in each township.

Those at the head of the movement today stated that an effort will be made at once to secure the three hundred odd names that will be necessary for the calling of an election.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

Just what day the board of county commissioners will set to consider the liquor license applications which will be before that body at the March session, which begins on the sixth of that month and lasts three days, is not known, as the board did not set the day when they adjourned Wednesday afternoon. Tuesday is always the day the board has taken until the county was voted "dry" and if that day is selected again, it will be the same day that the townships of Hancock and Brandywine will hold their local option elections. The chances are, however, that Wednesday will be the day to be known as "Liquor Day" with the board.

When the day arrives there will be at least thirteen applicants for licenses, ten of this number being in this city.

It is not known at this time whether a petition will be circulated calling for an election, but if one is put in circulation it will be within the next few days.

(Marion Chronicle.)

It has become definitely known that the liquor interests of Indiana have fixed upon Marion as the ground upon which they are to make their first and most important stand against the efforts of the people of the cities of the State to eliminate saloons under the new local option law.

Grant county will be the first county in the State to hold an election in all its units—indeed is the only county in Indiana in which so many elections have been called. It contains the largest city in Indiana in which an election has been called under the Proctor law. It is the only county in the State containing two cities with an election in sight.

The liquor interests of Indiana, with millions of dollars at stake in the outcome of the movement against the saloon in Indiana, have determined that they will wage in Marion a battle that they believe will exercise a large influence on the future both of liquor legislation and of popular action under it.

(Muncie Press.)

The hope and expectancy of the "drys" has risen to fever temperature in anticipation of the great mass meeting which will be held tonight at the First Presbyterian church, to make plans for the campaign which will be carried on in Delaware county against the return of the saloons.

ANTICIPATE BIG GAME

Rushville and Shelbyville Will Clash
This Evening.

A battle royal at basket ball is expected for this evening in this city when the Rushville and Shelbyville high school fives meet each other in the building on West Broadway that was recently fitted up for games by the local team, says the Shelbyville News. The contest will be the first one at home this year for the locals and a big crowd is expected to watch their effort. Rushville's team has not met defeat yet this season and not long ago defeated the local team. The defeat, however, was not discouraging to the locals and they think they can do to Rushville tonight just what Rushville did to them. At any rate they have strengthened their team by some practice and if Rushville pulls down the big end of the score it will be because she deserves it and fights to the last ditch to get it.

EVEN TOWN PUMP.

The Cambridge City Tribune of this week contains several items which show that that town is indeed "dry." One item tells of the closing of the last saloon in the town and in another column is an item telling of the town pump also being dry. Cambridge City assuredly is dry for sure.

The flowers of many trees, like the oak, elm and hickory, are so, inconspicuous that they are popularly supposed to be altogether lacking.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace theater will offer a Biograph this evening entitled "His Trust." It is a dramatic story, acted by the all-star Biograph company, which has pleased and delighted five-cent theater goers here since the company has been in existence. Miss Iva Brown will sing a new illustrated song.

The Star Grand was crowded last night at every performance to see Mme. Edith Meeker with her educated goats and everybody was well pleased with the many tricks they did, especially the ball rolling and rope walking acts. They will remain the rest of the week and give matinees tomorrow afternoon. The film for tonight is a Thanhouser entitled "Baseball and Bloomers." It is a great comedy of college life. Earl Robertson will sing "Let me Speak the Longing in My Heart."

The Vaudet management offers a big program of two reels of pictures tonight. The Thanhouser film, "Rip Van Winkle" is a reproduction of the story by the same name, which has become famous in the field of literature. Everyone, including the school-boy and girl is familiar with the theme. The Ambrosia film contains two subjects. "Shipwrecked" is a drama as well as "The Jealous Wife" both repeating stories of unusual interest. A new illustrated song will be sung.

In announcing the advent of Louis Mann at the Murat theater, Indianapolis next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and popular Wednesday matinee, February 13, 14, and 15, Wm. A. Brady who has brought many splendid attractions to Indianapolis in the past, feels sanguine that the theater-going public will find in "The Cheater," Mr. Mann's newest and most emphatic success, one of the merriest theatrical offerings, seen here in recent years. Indeed, "The Cheater" has been voted one of the funniest plays in the last decade, and as such has held audiences in laughing hysteria ever since its initial production at the Lyric theater in New York City, where it enjoyed five months of uncommon prosperity.

Louis Mann has long been regarded as the foremost character actor on the American stage and while his performance in "The Man Who Stood Still" last season brought forward most convincing proof that he was capable of more serious work, nevertheless in "The Cheater," he returns to the line of comedy that first made him a conspicuous figure as a comedian of distinguished subtlety and everywhere he has appeared in this comic play, adapted by himself from a German source, his work has been hailed as a refreshing relief, bubbling over with wholesome laughter. Seats now on sale.

"The Store for Particular People."

Friends in San Rosario

By O. HENRY

(Copyright, by Ainslee Magazine Co.)

"Nettlewick" settled himself in his chair. There would be no leaving San Rosario for him that day. He would have to telegraph to the comptroller of the currency; he would have to swear out a warrant before the United States commissioner for the arrest of Major Kingman; perhaps he would be ordered to close the bank on account of the loss of the securities. It was not the first crime the examiner had unearthed. Once or twice the terrible upheaval of human emotions that his investigations had loosed had almost caused a ripple in his official calm. He had seen bank men kneel and plead and cry like women for a chance—an hour's time—the overlooking of a single error. One cashier had shot himself at his desk before him. None of them had taken it with the dignity and coolness of this stern old westerner. Nettlewick felt that he owed it to him at least to listen if he wished to talk. With his elbow on the arm of his chair, and his square chin resting upon the fingers of his right hand, the bank examiner waited to hear the confession of the president of the First National bank of San Rosario.

"When a man's your friend," began Major Tom, somewhat didactically, "for forty years, and tried by water, fire, earth and cyclones, when you can do him a little favor you feel like doing it."

("Embezzle for him $70,000 worth of securities," thought the examiner.)

"We were cowboys together, Bob and I," continued the major, speaking slowly and deliberately, and musingly, as if his thoughts were rather of the past than the critical present, "and we prospected together for gold and silver over Arizona, New Mexico and a good part of California. We were both in the war of 'sixty-one, but in different commands. We've fought Indians and horse thieves side by side; we've starved for weeks in a cabin in the Arizona mountains, buried twenty feet deep in snow; we've ridden herd together when the wind blew so hard the lightning couldn't strike—Well, Bob and I have been through some rough spells since the first time we met in the branding camp of the old Anchor-Bar ranch. And during that time we've found it necessary more than once to help each other out of tight places. In those days it was expected of a man to stick to his friend, and he didn't ask any credit for it. Probably next day you'd need him to get at your back and help stand off a band of Apaches, or put a tourniquet on your leg above a rattlesnake bite and ride for whisky. So, after all, it was give and take, and if you didn't stand square with your pardner, why, you might be shy one when you needed him. But Bob was a man who was willing to go further than that. He never played a limit.

"Twenty years ago I was sheriff of this county, and I made Bob my chief deputy. That was before the boom in cattle, when we both made our stake. I was sheriff and collector, and it was a big thing for me then. I was married, and we had a boy and a girl—a four and a six-year-old. There was a comfortable house next to the courthouse, furnished by the county, rent free, and I was saving some money. Bob did most of the office work. Both of us had seen rough times and plenty of rustling and danger, and I tell you it was great to hear the rain dashing against the windows of nights, and be warm and safe and comfortable, and know you could get up in the morning and be shaved and have folks call you 'mister.' And then, I had the finest wife and kids that ever struck the range, and my old friend with me enjoying the first fruits of prosperity and white shirts, and I guess I was happy. Yes, I was happy about that time."

The major sighed and glanced casually out of the window. The bank examiner changed his position, and leaned his chin upon his other hand.

"One winter," continued the major, "the money for the county taxes came pouring in so fast that I didn't have time to take the stuff to the bank for a week. I just shoved the checks into a cigar box and the money into a sack, and locked them in the big safe that belonged in the sheriff's office."

"I had been overworked that week, and was about sick, anyway. My nerves were out of order and my sleep at night didn't seem to rest me. The doctor had some scientific name for it, and I was taking medicine. And so, added to the rest, I went to bed at night with that money on my mind. Not that there was much need of being worried, for the safe was a good one, and nobody but Bob and I knew the combination. On Friday night there was about $6,500 in cash in the bag. On Saturday morning I went to the office as usual. The safe was locked and Bob was writing at his desk. I opened the safe and the money was gone. I called Bob, and roused everybody in the courthouse to announce the robbery. It struck me that Bob took it pretty quiet, considering how much it reflected upon both him and me."

"Two days went by, and we never got a clue. It couldn't have been burglars, for the safe had been opened by the combination in the proper way. People must have begun to talk, for one afternoon in comes Alice—that's my wife—and the boy and girl, and Alice stamps her foot, and her eyes flash, and she cries out: 'The lying wretches—Tom, Tom!' I catch her in a faint, and bring her 'round little by little, and she lays her head down and cries and cries for the first time since she took Tom Kingman's name and fortunes. And Jack and Zilla—the youngsters—they were always wild as tiger cubs to rush at Bob and I climb all over him whenever they were allowed to come to the courthouse—they stood and kicked their little shoes, and herded together like scared partridges. They were having their first trip down into the shadows of life. Bob was working at his desk, and he got up and went out without a word. The grand jury was in session then, and the next morning Bob went before them and confessed that he stole the money. He said he lost it in a poker game. In fifteen minutes they had found a true bill and sent me to arrest the man with whom I'd been closer than a thousand brothers for many a year."

"I did it, and then I said to Bob, pointing: 'There's my house, and here's my office, and up there's Maine, and out that way is California, and over there is Florida—and that's your range 'til court meets. You're in my charge, and I take the responsibility. You be here when you're wanted.'"

"Thanks, Tom," he said, kind of carelessly; "I was sort of hoping you wouldn't lock me up. Court meets next Monday, so if you don't object, I'll just loaf around the office till then. I've got one favor to ask, if it isn't too much. If you'd let the kids come out in the yard once in a while and have a romp, I'd like it."

"Why not?" I answered him.

"I OPENED THE SAFE AND THE MONEY WAS GONE."

"They're welcome, and so are you. And come to my house, the same as ever." You see, Mr. Nettlewick, you can't make a friend of a thief, but neither can you make a thief of a friend, all at once."

The examiner made no answer. At that moment was heard the shrill whistle of a locomotive pulling into the depot. That was the train on the little, narrow-gauge road that struck into San Rosario from the south. The major cocked his ear and listened for a moment and looked at his watch. The narrow-gauge was in on time—10:35. The major continued:

"So Bob hung around the office, reading the papers and smoking. I put another deputy to work in his place, and, after a while, the first excitement of the case wore off."

"One day when we were alone in the office Bob came over to where I was sitting. He was looking sort of grim and blue—the same look he used to get when he'd been up watching for Indians all night or herd-riding."

"Tom," says he, "it's harder than standing off redskins; it's harder than lying in the lava desert forty miles from water; but I'm going to stick it out to the end. You know that's been my style. But if you'd tip me the smallest kind of a sign—if you'd just say: 'Bob, I understand,' why it would make it lots easier."

"I was surprised. 'I don't know what you mean, Bob,' I said. 'Of course, you know that I'd do anything under the sun to help you that I could. But you've got me guessing.'"

"All right, Tom," was all he said, and he went back to his newspaper and lit another cigar.

"It was the night before court met when I found out what he meant. I went to bed that night with that same old, light-headed, nervous feeling come back upon me. I dropped off to sleep about midnight. When I awoke I was standing, half dressed in one of the courthouse corridors. Bob was holding one of my arms, our family doctor the other, and Alice was shaking me and half crying. She had sent for the doctor without my knowing it, and when he came they had found me out of bed and missing, and had begun a search."

"Sleep-walking," said the doctor. "All of us went back to the house, and the doctor told us some remarkable stories about the strange things people had done while in that condition. I was feeling rather chilly after my trip out, and, as my wife was out of the room at the time, I pulled open the door of an old wardrobe that stood in the room and dragged out a big quilt I had seen in there. With it I tumbled out the bag of money for stealing which Bob was to be tried—and convicted—in the morning."

"How the jumping rattlesnakes did that get there? I yelled, and all hands must have seen how surprised I was. Bob knew in a flash."

"You darned old snoozer," he said, with the old-time look on his face, "I saw you put it there. I watched you open the safe and take it out, and I followed you. I looked through the window and saw you hide it in that wardrobe."

"Then you blankety-blank, flopped, sheep-headed coyote, what did you say you took it, for?"

"Because," said Bob, simply, "I didn't know you were asleep."

"I saw him glance toward the door of the room where Alice and Jack and Zilla were, and I knew then what it meant to be a man's friend from Bob's point of view."

Major Tom paused, and again directed his glance out of the window. He saw some one in the Stockmen's National bank reach and draw a yellow shade down the whole length of its plate-glass, big front window, although the position of the sun did not seem to warrant such a defensive movement against its rays.

Nettlewick sat up straight in his chair. He had listened patiently, but without consuming interest, to the major's story. It had impressed him as irrelevant to the situation, and it could certainly have no effect upon the consequences. Those western people, he thought, had an exaggerated sentimentality. They were not business-like. They needed to be protected from their friends. Evidently the major had concluded. And what he said amounted to nothing. "May I ask," said the examiner, "if you have anything further to say that bears directly upon the question of those abstracted securities?"

"Abstracted securities, sir!" Major Tom turned suddenly in his chair, his blue eyes flashing upon the examiner. "What do you mean, sir?"

He drew from his coat pocket a batch of folded papers held together by a rubber band, and tossed them into Nettlewick's hands, and rose to his feet.

"You'll find those securities there, sir, every stock, bond and share of 'em. I took them from the notes while you were counting the cash. Examine and compare them for yourself."

The major led the way back into the banking-room. The examiner, astounded, perplexed, nettled, at sea, followed. He felt that he had been made the victim of something that was not exactly a hoax, but that left him in the shoes of one who had been played upon, used, and then discarded, without even an inkling of the game. Perhaps, also, his official position had been irreverently joggled with. But there was nothing he could take hold of. An official report of the matter would be an absurdity. And, somehow, he felt that he would never know anything more about the matter than he did then.

Frigidly, mechanically, Nettlewick examined the securities, found them to tally with the notes, gathered his black wallet to depart.

"I will say," he protested, turning the indignant glare of his glasses upon Major Kingman, "that your statements—your misleading statements, which you do not condescend to explain—do not appear to be quite the thing, regarded either as business or humor. I do not understand such motives or action."

Major Tom looked down at him serenely and not unkindly.

"Son," he said, "there are plenty of things in the chaparral, and on the prairies, and up the canyons that you don't understand. But I want to thank you for listening to a garrulous old man's prosy stories. We old Texans love to talk about our adventures and our old comrades, and the home folks have long ago learned to run when we begin with 'Once upon a time,' so we have to spin our yarns to the stranger within our gates."

The major smiled, but the examiner only bowed coldly, and abruptly quitted the bank. They saw him travel diagonally across the street in a straight line and enter the Stockmen's National bank.

Major Tom sat down at his desk, and drew from his vest pocket the note Roy had given him. He had read it once, but hurriedly, and now, with something like a twinkle in his eyes, he read again. These were the words he read:

"Dear Tom:

"I hear there's one of Uncle Sam's grayhounds going through you, and that means that we'll catch him inside of a couple of hours, maybe. Now, I want you to do something for me. We've got just $2,200 in the bank, and the law requires that we have $20,000. I let Ross and Fisher have $18,

CRUMPACKER BILL PASSED

House Will Be Increased By 42 Members.

REPUBLICANS IGNORE CAUCUS

By a Majority of Forty, After Scenes of Almost Unprecedented Disorder, the House Adopts the Reapportionment Bill, Fixing Representation on a Basis of 433 Members of the Lower House.

Washington, Feb. 10.—In the Sixty-third congress there will be 433 members of the house of representatives, as compared with 391 in the present house. The bill reported by Representative Crumpacker of Indiana, from the census committee, providing for reapportionment on this 433 basis, was passed by the house. There was no recorded vote on the passage of the Crumpacker bill, but just previously a substitute offered by Representative Campbell of Kansas proposing to retain the membership of the house at its present total, was defeated, 131 to 171. The Democratic side voted solidly against the Campbell proposition, and their strength, supplemented by the votes of sixteen Republicans who ignored the action of their recent party caucus, gave the proponents of the increase in the house membership a clear majority of forty.

Of almost as much interest as the vote of the Campbell amendment was the roll call on a committee amendment urged by Mr. Crumpacker and supported by the solid Democratic side, providing that any state which gets an increase under the bill shall be re-districted by "the legislature thereof." Representatives Bartholdt and Elvin of Missouri, two Republicans, bitterly opposed this plan, contending that it was nothing more nor less than a Democratic gerrymander. The committee amendment carried, 159 to 143. This was in the committee of the whole. Later in the open house this action was reversed and the amendment was defeated, 158 to 161.

Voted Against Own Amendment.

Mr. Crumpacker, who had previously offered and supported the amendment, changed his mind and voted against it. Speaker Cannon had his name called and he, too, voted "No." There was an outburst of applause from the Republicans when the result was announced. The defeat of this amendment means that the method of redistricting will be left to the discretion of the state legislatures. It was a foregone conclusion that many regular Republicans did not consider themselves bound by the action of the recent caucus of their party, which declared against an increase of membership on the basis of the latest census figures, and that the Crumpacker bill would pass. But hard fights were made by backers of the various propositions to amend the Crumpacker measure.

The house has seldom been more disorderly than during the consideration of the reapportionment bill. Practically every member who tried to explain or discuss an amendment he had offered was howled down. Democrats and Republicans alike hooted and booed, banged their desks and yelled "Vote" and "Regular order," until the member on his feet gave up in despair. The defeat of the Campbell substitute and the passage of the Crumpacker bill were greeted with great applause. The Crumpacker bill thus passed—the senate will acquiesce as a matter of course—provides an increase of forty-two members.

CASE EXCITES SYMPATHY

Jay County Folk Interested in the Sad Strait of Accused Woman.

Portland, Ind., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Sallie R. Karney of Corkwell, now at liberty under bond to answer for the murder of her husband, David Karney, last Halloween night, is ill at her home and her attending physician gives little hope of her recovery. She is suffering from a nervous breakdown, aggravated by an injured spine and an affection of her lungs. She was taken sick in the county jail, where she was held until habeas corpus proceedings were brought.

Mrs. Karney, it is said, realizes the hopelessness of her condition, and has found homes for her five small children. There is much sympathy for the woman.

THE PRESIDENT AT CORN SHOW

Busiest Trip Mr. Taft Has Taken In Months.

IT WILL KEEP HIM ON THE GO

Leaving Columbus Tonight, the President Will Go to Logansport, Where He Will Switch Onto the McKinley Interurban Lines For a Trip Over Into Illinois, Where He Will Make a Lincoln Day Address.

Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—At the National Corn exposition today President Taft made an address. After the address he took a motor ride through Columbus and later will become the guest of the Ohio state university until evening, when he is to attend a banquet given by the exposition officials.

The presidential party will leave Columbus late tonight. Early Saturday morning his car will be switched from the Pennsylvania railroad at Logansport, Ind., to the electric line controlled by Representative McKinley of Illinois. On the ride through Indiana and Illinois over this road Mr. Taft will stop at Urbana, Ill., University of Illinois at Decatur, at Bement and Springfield. In Springfield he will be the guest of Governor Deneen. In the afternoon the president will make an address to the Illinois legislature in the house of representatives. In view of the recent attacks upon the Illinois legislature growing out of the Lorimer scandal, the president's speech there will be awaited with special interest. From the house of representatives he will go back to the executive mansion, where he will hold a reception and at night he will be the guest of the Springfield chamber of commerce. To this organization the president will make an address on Abraham Lincoln.

The return trip to Washington will begin Sunday morning and the president is expected back at Washington early Monday. Representative McKinley, Secretary Norton, Captain Butt, the president's physician, Dr. Richardson, one of the White House photographers, and two secret service men are in the president's party.

DREW A CROWD

Decies and His Bride the Observed of All Observers.

Brunswick, Ga., Feb. 10.—When Lord Decies and his bride, formerly Vivien Gould, reached here over the Atlantic Coast line enroute to Jekyll Island to spend their honeymoon, Lady Decies furnished a sensation by puffing a cigarette in full view of several hundred persons gathered at the depot to get a look at the bridal couple. When the train stopped Lord and Lady Decies were at lunch in the dining car. The people at the station gave a cheer. After luncheon the bride took her seat at a window in view of the curious crowd, produced a cigarette from a jeweled case, lighted it and coolly began to puff. The crowd broke into a cheer as Lady Decies puffed the cigarette and she seemed to enjoy the applause. In a few minutes the couple left the car at Atlanta and walked to the wharf, a hundred yards away, between two lines of spectators. Lord Decies lifted his hat and Lady Decies smiled and bowed.

The girl bride seemed amazed and delighted at the crowd. Lord Decies acted a bit bored.

MISSING BRIDEGROOM

William Thaw III. Disappears on West Indian Wedding Trip.

Pittsburg, Feb. 10.—Detective Frank Lee, who for many years has aided William Thaw, third, in various predicaments, is now hurrying to the West Indies to pick up the trail of Thaw, who, according to the North Side police and servants of the Thaw family, has disappeared while on his wedding trip.

Thaw was last heard of in the vicinity of Jamaica, according to his Allegheny relatives. He has been known as the most eccentric of Pittsburg's rich young men. He was married to Miss Gladys Bradley of Bridgeport at the St. Regis hotel in New York Dec. 1 last, and it is understood here that Mrs. William Thaw, second, mother of the young man, was obliged to give her word that her son would behave himself before Miss Bradley would consent to marry.

Whole Train Was Quarantined.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—The dread of the bubonic plague which prevails in Manchuria, reaching Europe, seems to have been realized. A report from Pensa states that a man from the maritime provinces of the far east was found sick on a train there, apparently suffering from the plague. His car and five others containing 124 passengers have been isolated and surrounded by a military guard.

Going After Vote Shirks.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—The bill compelling every qualified citizen of Indiana to vote in general, special and primary elections or to make affidavit that he has scruples against so doing, passed the senate by a vote of 29 to 18.

TO REGULATE THE SALOONS

Senate Passes Proctor Bill By Vote of 27 to 21

THE BIG FIGHT IS OVER FEES

On This Proposition the Democratic Floor Leader, Stotsenburg, and Senator Fleming, Prominent Member of Brewers' Association, Voted Against the Bill, Which Fixes Saloon License at $700 for Cities and $500 in Towns.

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.—With the amount of license fees unchanged and as amended on second reading, the Proctor liquor regulation bill was passed in the senate by a vote of 27 to 21. The fees provided are $700 in cities and $500 in incorporated towns, including the state fee of $200.

Among the Democrats who voted against the bill were Senators Stephen B. Fleming, a leading member of the Association of Indiana Brewers, and Evan B. Stotsenburg, Democratic floor leader. Both said they were dissatisfied with the amounts of fees fixed in the bill, which they thought were too high. Senator Fleming had much to do with drawing the provisions of the bill, but as originally submitted the bill named lower fees than it now contains.

Where the Fight Came In.

The principal fight started when the bill was brought up on third reading, was on the question of the amount of fees. Senator Stotsenburg's attempt to reduce the fees and put them on a sliding scale was followed by a substitute amendment by Senator Proctor, who moved to place the fee in cities at $1,000 and in towns at $700, including the state license fee of $200. Later Senator Proctor withdrew his substitute, which he said had been introduced for the purpose of killing the Stotsenburg amendment, and recommended that the amounts of fees be left as named in the printed bill. The Stotsenburg amendment was lost by a vote of 11 to 36.

Sensors who voted for the passage of the bill were: Aiken, Beal, Clark, Commons, Curtis, Durre, Farlow, Farrell, Gers, Grube, Harlan, Hauck, Higgins, Hunt, Jackson, Kistler, Lamont, Long, McCarty, Netherville, Powers, Proctor, Shively, Sullivan, Tilden, Trautman, Yarling.

Those who voted against the bill were: Brady, Carleton, Crumpacker, Fleming, Gavitt, Greenwell, Halleck, Hanna, Jenkins, Kimmel, Lambert, Moore, Parks, Ratts, Royse, Sexton, Stotsenburg, Strange, Traylor, White, Wood.

Hibberd and Kane not present.

Provisions of the Bill.

The amounts of license fees in the bill as passed are the flat sums of $700 for cities and $500 for incorporated towns, including the state fee of $200. Cities of the first and second classes are authorized to charge fees for all saloons within four miles of their limits, cities of all other classes within two miles of their limits, and incorporated towns within two miles of their limits.

Among the provisions of the bill are:

License shall not be granted to licensee who has permitted gambling in his place of business; specifying that remonstrances may be had in cities as well as townships; for the revocation of a license held by a grossly immoral applicant or one who is otherwise unfit to conduct a saloon; prohibiting obscene pictures in saloons; increasing the penal bond of the applicant for renewal from $2,000 to $3,500; reducing from ten to five the number of days which a remonstrance shall be permitted to be filed before the meeting of the board at which the application is to be heard; providing increased license fees shall not apply to present licenses until expiration; that license fees required to be paid to the county treasurer shall go to the school fund of the school corporation in which the licensee transacts business; providing that the applicant shall be responsible for the payment of all judgments for civil damages growing out of unlawful sales of intoxicating liquors; providing for enumeration of population in townships in which there are no cities; allowing a saloon for the first five hundred inhabitants and one saloon for each one thousand inhabitants thereafter.

Legislative Doings.

Among the bills reported favorably from committees in the senate were: An amended bill providing for the licensing and examination of court reporters; bill for giving the state board of tax commissioners power to employ extra assistants; bill making it mandatory for school boards to establish a special school for incorrigibles; bill for establishing liquor and drug cure departments in county workhouses; bill for the registration of voters; bill for the establishment and maintenance of county tuberculosis hospitals; bill for giving the appellate court power to act as a court of claims; bill for allowing the William H. Draper claim of $56,963, and many others. The reports were approved.

Eighteen new bills have been introduced in the senate and forty-nine in the house. The house has concluded its consideration of the specific appropriations bill.

THEY'RE ALL SWAINS.

"Lieutenant Governor Hall, Senator Shively and myself are going to form a partnership," said Senator Trautmann of Columbus as he folded a letter which he found on his desk, replaced it in an envelope and sighed, according to the Star. "Well, what for?" asked an acquaintance, who was willing to take a chance on having the member from Bartholomew and Decatur turn a joke. "You see it is just this way. Shively and Lieutenant Governor Hall and I are the only unmarried members as far as I know, and we continuously are receiving invitations reading 'yourself and wife are invited,' etc. Now the only thing I can see for us to do is to form some sort of a partnership," and he sighed again.

Petitions For Sunday Closing Will

May Take Some Time.

DELAY AT OTHER PLACES

The Vote in Indianapolis Showed 95
Per Cent of the Patrons

Were in Favor.

The question whether or not the letter carriers' windows at the post-office shall be closed on Sunday is decided by the postoffice authorities at Washington. The poll which is now being taken by Mr. Stech and the result of same will have to be filed with the postal department at Washington.

Should the vote of the city show that the people are in favor of closing the postoffice on Sunday it would be a month or more before the department would take any action in the matter, with the result that the local office will be open on Sunday morning as usual for at least several weeks.

The vote which was taken at Indianapolis in regard to the matter some time ago, showed that 95 per cent of the patrons of the office were in favor of closing. This report was filed with the department at Washington more than a month ago, and no orders in regard to closing have been issued from the postal headquarters and it is expected that the Rushville report will meet a like delay even should it favor closing.

There is some misunderstanding in regard to the closing order. If the postoffice should be closed on Sunday the patrons must either elect to get the mail by delivery or by box exclusively, and must not expect to get it one way during the week and another on Sunday. If the office is closed those who get mail by delivery through the week and by box on Sunday will not be permitted to do so when the closing order goes into effect. They will have to wait until Monday for the mail that is received at the office after the last delivery of the carriers Saturday.
